

Charles S. Rhodes
Dean, Western College of Veterinary Medicine
University of Saskatchewan

Dr. Rhodes received his BSc and DVM degrees from the University of Minnesota and a MSc degree from Iowa State University. He has a teaching and research background in food animal medicine and veterinary preventive medicine. For eight years, he served as Head of the Department of Herd Medicine and Theriogenology and as Associate Dean Research for nine years before being named Dean of the Western College of Veterinary Medicine in 2002.

Dr. Rhodes has a strong interest and background in food production medicine, particularly swine production medicine. He is also keenly interested in the essential role of veterinarians in public health.